Course Description

This course explores the nature and importance of biblical integration, and introduces simple, practical strategies for classroom implementation. Participants will develop their understanding of biblical integration through interaction with each other and preparing a biblically integrated lesson plan or unit that is relevant to the grade and subject level they teach.

Course Purpose

"Biblical integration" can be a confusing topic for teachers. However, it is a core feature of education that is distinctively Christian. Integrating subject content and teaching methods with a biblical worldview is a dynamic process, so there is no "step-by-step" formula to apply. Teachers with an understanding of the purpose and process of biblical integration will be in a position to think creatively about how to implement this in the context of their own classroom. This short course is not intended to turn teachers into experts, but provide a simple way forward for teachers who wish to strengthen their understanding and practice.

Course Objectives

Students will…

1) Be able to clearly express what "biblical integration" is and why it is important in the Christian school.
2) Identify the themes and principles in Scripture that have particular relevance to the subject area they teach.
3) Prepare a biblically integrated lesson or unit plan.
4) Share what they are learning and interact with the insights of other course participants.
